The synergy between light and food is expressed in many ways. The presence of light helps to trigger the fundamental processes of life, whereas food is a precious resource that allows us to build a wealth of food tastes and, at the same time, makes us reflect on the criteria of growing food and the meaning of life and consumption.

Students from the Brera Academy of Fine Arts have interpreted the shapes of Nature as some lamps made of sintex polymer, which stand for modern vases. They translate the sense of the “gift” in “vases”. Their light is used as an instrument of imaginative exploration to nourish the mind.
